

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

AERODYNAMICS, INC. REBRANDS AS CALIFORNIA PACIFIC AIRLINES AND LAUNCHES NEW RESERVATION PLATFORM

Atlanta, Georgia. – AUGUST 1, 2018 - Aerodynamics Inc. (ADI), the commercial airline with scheduled service and charter operations, rebrands as California Pacific Airlines (CPA). The new branding will transition throughout the month of August with a planned September 1st launch of CPA branded flights. On September 1st all flights will fly under the new name California Pacific Airlines trademark. This includes the Essential Air Service (EAS) routes currently operated in South Dakota and Denver, CO. All CPA aircraft will transition to the new livery, and all airport stations will receive updated branding as well.

CPA is also pleased to announce the launch of its new reservation platform which replaces the Great Lakes system ADI previously used for its South Dakota routes. Reservations are now available on www.mycpair.com for ALL California Pacific scheduled flights after September 1st, 2018. The new system boasts many improved capabilities. Passengers will enjoy the convenience of a streamlined booking process, electronic boarding passes, online check-in, enhanced baggage tracking capabilities and more. CPA flights will also be available soon through all major third party Global Distribution System (GDS) websites such as Expedia, Travelocity, Google Flights and more.

In support of the new reservation system, CPA has opened its own reservation call center with dedicated customer service agents that will assist with bookings and customer related inquiries. The new call center will service both the current Denver based routes as well as CPA's planned expansion on the west coast. This enhancement aims to take the passenger's flight experience, from booking to flight completion, to the next level with in-house personnel.

The new reservation & information number for California Pacific flights September 1 and beyond is 1-855-505-9394.

All current ticket holders that purchased flights through CPA's previous partner, Great Lakes, before August 1st, 2018 will not experience any disruption with their flights. Any questions regarding this transition period can be addressed by contacting customerservice@mycpair.com or by calling the reservation center. Reservation and ticketing services on flights through the month of August will remain with Great Lakes Airlines.

In a related development, CPA has recently signed a lease with the McClellan-Palomar Airport in Carlsbad, CA. Carlsbad will serve as the base for CPA's planned growth on the west coast. "We should be announcing our initial service points, schedule and fares in the next week or so for the west coast operation," commented CPA's Mickey Bowman, Executive Vice President and COO. He continued, "We have set a target of November 1st for our first flights from Carlsbad. We will be holding job interviews to staff our Carlsbad pilot base in the next few weeks. This base will be unique in that we envision the pilots primarily flying same day trips, without the need to be away from family and friends for extended periods of time. We anticipate hiring Mechanics and Ground Service Agents as well as we get a bit nearer the November 1st launch date."

California Pacific Airlines (CPA) service is operated by Aerodynamics, Inc. (ADI), a certified FAA 121 Air Carrier (Cert# BUEA634C) offering scheduled flights and large aircraft operations. ADI has served the industry for 58 years without incident or accident. ADI operates a fleet of 50 seat regional jets throughout the U.S. For more information please visit www.mycpair.com.
